International Conference

Stree Shakti The Parallel Force was the co-organizer of The Fourth International Congress of Women, Work & Health held in New Delhi in November 2005. Delegates from fifty three Nations met and deliberated on improving the work environment for women with a view of improving their physical and mental health.

International Conference on “Ageing women: Critical Challenges and Concerns”, which was held on the 26-28th Women (SAFAW) in New Delhi was initiated. Delegates from Afghanistan, Bangladesh, India and Nepal came together to form this platform and to take up the cause of elderly women for supportive action August 2013 with the support of Help Age India and UNDP India, the South Asia Forum for Aged was launched during this conference.

A Collection of Innovative Practices for care of elderly women in India published with support of UNFPA in 2016 was released by Hon Speaker Sumitra Mahajan Ji .

From 2014 to 2015, Stree Shakti, along with HelpAge India, UNDP and other organizations has held five conferences on aging. With the help of UNFPA, Stree Shakti selected nine institutions with considerable experience in this field, and chose fifteen researchers to study and document the best practices being implemented.

Different models of elderly care including Sulabh International's work with Vrindavan widows, Ekal Nari Shakti Sangathan's strategy of educating women on collective power, the International Longevity Center's programs for medical expenses sponsorship, compensated volunteering opportunities and housing for elder in Pune, the Calcutta Metropolitan Institute of Gerontology's day care centers, mobile clinics and livelihood programs, and the Nightingale Medical Trust's promotion of cost-effective medical services for Alzheimer's patients are included in the report. Additionally, the report also covers SEWA Bank's Life-Cycle Approach reaching out to elderly women by acknowledging the particular financial needs of that age, and HelpAge India's Vidarbha Project, which provides financial assistance to widows affected by farmer suicides. Selected old-age homes in Mumbai have also been studied and the best practices implemented have been documented; the Kerala State Government's commitment to the cause of protecting the elderly has also been studied

Women through writing and theater

- A Quest For Roots Editor Rekha Mody Subeditor Rimi B Chattarjee

Released in 1999 – Second edition November 2008

This book contextualizes the experience of women in India from the earliest recorded times to the mid-20th century. We have compiled in one book the histories of women through the centuries, of all faiths, castes and communities. Today's women in India have a need to be aware of the experiences and the achievements of their foremothers, stories not always recorded in conventional texts. To fill this gap, we document individual women, whether well known or little known, whose lives have contributed to the identity and concerns of Indian womanhood. Living women have not been included as they are still making history. It is biographical dictionary, a useful reference book to keep on your working table' – Kushwant Singh HT 1999

Amazing tales So much strength, disappointment and tragedy ... A lot of beauty too' – Thomas Easely

'A wonderful contribution' – Dr Kiran Bedi

'There is a common thread that binds all these achievers: they succeeded in transgressing the constraints of a patriarchal society in their own ways. It is a collector's item.' –Book

The Play Vidyottama A gender perspective 2007

VIDYOTTAMĀ , a contemporary play, is based on the life of the great Sanskrit poet Kalidasa and his scholar wife Vidyottama, princess of Ujjaini. The relationship between Vidyottama and Kalidasa is extremely close and intriguing. Everyone in the kingdom believes that Kalidasa is the sole creator of four epic poems and also a playwright of great merit. The king and the courtiers as also the common man of Ujjaini, venerate Kalidasa, whose fame has now spread far and wide, along with the story of the proverbial fool who was once sitting on the very branch that he was axing, but has now received the blessings of Saraswati, the goddess of learning. As is common in historical records, there is no further mention of Vidyottama the scholar princess, who was nurtured in an environment of learning and culture, and was equally erudite and sensitive.

Vidyottama is a contemporary play reassessing history with a gender perspective, very subtly highlighting the untold story of women’s contribution to art and literature. Vidyottama is not a mere inspiration for Kalidasa but an actual equal partner in creation. The spectator is made a privileged viewer of the entire process of creation. In the end, it is left to him to decide the difficult question as to who is then, the actual creator.
